A.J. LANZAROTTA FRESH CUT

=
100% YIELDS

INCREASED FOOD SAFETY

STABLE COSTS

=
REDUCED LABOR

CONSISTENCY

Direct Advantages of Fresh Cut Produce

- Higher profit margins
- Longer shelf life
- Stabilized Food Cost
- Much tighter and consistent portion control
- 100% Yield which increases order accuracy of what is needed and inventory levels
- Increased product uniformity and consistency for customer satisfaction
- Better control of food safety and less likelihood of cross contamination in the kitchen
- Eliminates the need for purchasing various kitchen equipment and clean them
- Less employee training needed, just open the bag, portion and serve
- Consistent look and cooking times regardless of who is in the kitchen on any given shift of the day
- Lower risk of employee injuries by not needing to handle knives and kitchen equipment

Indirect Advantages of Fresh Cut Produce

- Labour Savings including reduced receiving and preparation times
- Health and Safety (WSIB Claims), less likelihood of employee injuries and time off work due to injuries that could result in a poorer WSIB rating which may lead to higher premiums
- Controlled Food Costs-Both yield and price of fresh cut are much more stable than cutting whole case product in house.
- Proven in the long term that that customers can't tell the difference between in house cutting VS. Fresh Cut value added product
- Less storage space for Fresh Cut vs whole product thereby maximizing cooler space and having less cardboard to dispose of which saves money

Storage Suggestions

- 🍅 Always refrigerate your Fresh-Cut produce as soon as possible.
- 🍅 Keep your Fresh-Cut produce at the back of your Fridge on the lower shelves away from the door which will always be the coolest part of the walk-in.
- 🍅 Leave in it's original packaging? Yes. Saving space with fewer boxes may be your only choice but Fresh-Cut produce packaging is designed to protect your produce and enhance the shelf life.
- 🍅 If you open a package of fresh cut produce and don't use the full bag, be sure to remove as much air as possible, then re-seal it tightly and refrigerate it as soon as possible.
- 🍅 Always rotate your fresh cut produce; first in, first out.
- 🍅 Use your judgement with best before dates; they should be used as a guide.
